

Metis Leader, First Nation Advocate, Spiritual Mentor, Saskatchewan Historian

Jim Settee: The Way Home

A story of transformation and homecoming

On a summer day in the late 1950s, Jim Settee arrived at Kingsmere Lake, Saskatchewan, called by a desperate team after a three day unsuccessful search for a lost boy. In two hours Jim tracked that boy over six miles of muskeg. Fifty years later, the filmmaker's search for how Jim brought that boy back leads her into our universal search for home, and into her own personal homecoming. This is the story of Jim's remarkable life as a tracker, historian, advocate, and spiritual mentor. It is also a story of transformation for those he touched, and a legacy for all people on our varied journeys 'home'.

Regina Public Library
Film Theatre

Tuesday, May 11, 2010
7:00 p.m.

Free Admission - Everyone Welcome

Saskatoon Director Jeanne Corrigan in attendance

Special remarks by Buddhist teacher Donald Rothberg and by Elder Joseph Naytowhow

Broadcast on SCN & APTN

Written, Produced and Directed by: Jeanne Corrigan

Presented by:

Saskatoon Insight Meditation Community

Produced with the Assistance of: The Canadian Independent Film & Video Fund, Community Initiatives Fund, SaskFilm Filmmakers Program, Rogers Documentary Fund, SCN, Aboriginal Peoples Television Network, Metis Cultural Development Fund, Canadian Heritage, Saskatchewan Heritage Foundation, SaskCulture, Saskatchewan Lotteries, Saskatchewan Film Employment Tax Credit Program, The Canada Film or Video Production Tax Credit
Photos by the Settee family.